THE POLITICAL SEASON

A person with an inquisitive bent of mind inquired of the writer the other day when the political season began and ended in Contra Costa County?

I do not know what prompted the query, but my response was that according to all indications it began on the first day of January of each year and ended at midnight on the 31st day of December. The remainder of the time, it appears we have taken a vacation from politics, adjourned them or something.

THE REASON

The statement smacks of being hyperbolic, and mayhap it is. I can readily see how my views may be warped, for the men and women we personally contact in our daily associations live, move and breathe in a political atmosphere and seldom talk on any other subject; in fact I have found myself drifting into the same habit and was causally so reminded by a friend the other day.

Perhaps there are other matters of as much moment and interest, but frankly I do not know what they are.

THE DEFINITION

Politics after all can only be defined as a science of government, and if we are not interested in government, be it township, municipal, county, state or national, it is equivalent to saying we are indifferent to how and by whom our affairs are managed. Politics, in a broad sense, enters into every relation of our lives and every activity but we are prone to regard participation as something unworthy and deplorable.

CCC TESTS TO BE HELD HERE

Applicants for admission to the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Contra Costa county, may take the required medical examination at the SERA headquarters, at 325 Tenth street, in Richmond, on Monday and Tuesday mornings, April 22nd and 23rd, at 8:00 o'clock, according to an announcement by Glenn M. Stout, area director. Applicants will be notified by mail on which date he is expected to appear.

The C. C. C. camp applicant is urged to come prepared to go directly from the recruiting station to the camp without returning to his home, if he is accepted. This means that he should bring with him whatever things he wants to take with him for the duration of the first six months on the job. Insofar as clothing, blankets and camp equipment will be provided for him at camp, it is suggested he bring one good suit of clothes, which he may use for excursions away from camp, and his toilet articles, tooth-brush, comb, hairbrush and shaving kit, for use until the government kit is issued at camp; and any other pieces of equipment such as flashlight, etc., that he may want to take along.

The quota for C. C. C. camp enrolments is not filled to date, and applications are being taken at the SERA offices in Richmond, Martinez and Pittsburg.

Window Broken In Disturbance

A new disturbance in the oil tanker strike was reported in Richmond last night when a large piece of concrete was hurled through the front window of the home of Otto Gauck, 440 Thirty-fifth street. Three large panes of glass were shattered.

Gauck, who is reported to be employed on one of the Standard tankers, told police that he was sitting in his front room with the lights out, listening to the radio, when a light truck drove by. At that time the cement came hurtling through the window glass. The truck drove rapidly away, he said.

RICHMOND WOMAN PURSUDES BURGLAR

YEGG ROUTED BY SCANTILY CLAD WOMAN

Richmond housewife late last night gave chase to a burglar who was interrupted in the process of robbing her home. Clad only in her night gown, the woman chased the yegg out into the street and saw him flee rapidly north.

The woman is Mrs. W. M. Peterson of 561 Twenty-second street. Shortly before 11:20 last evening, she awoke to see a flash light beam against the walls of the bedroom. The form of a heavy set short man, was visible in the room. Mrs. Peterson gave vent to a healthy, loud scream and the intruder turned and fled.

Without waiting for her husband, who had been aroused by her scream, Mrs. Peterson dashed out into the street in hot pursuit of the burglar. Near her home she saw a man and a woman walking. Her quarry brushed by them, and kept on running. Becoming embarrassed over her lack of street clothes, the woman returned to her home and put in a hurry call for police.

She furnished officers with a meager description of the burglar, who is believed responsible for a series of petty robberies in Richmond during the past few weeks. At the same time police are searching for the man and the woman. Mrs. Peterson saw, believing that they can furnish the officers with a better description of the bandit.

ANOTHER ROBBERY

Five minutes after the disturbance at the Peterson home, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thompson of 467 Twenty-second street, reported that their home had been robbed during their absence. A window had been forced open and the place searched. His loot included a watch presented to Mr. Thompson in 1869, $1.20 in cash and other minor items. The burglar failed to notice an old fashioned savings bank containing $20 on the writing desk.

This was the third robbery to be reported in the past two days.

Arizona Is Swept By Big Dust Storms

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 12—UP—

Two-thirds of Arizona was dust-choked tonight as swelling black clouds rolled over the Salt river valley and banked against the Colorado river.

Only a low pressure area held off the advance of the ominous darkness over Southern California.

Dense clouds, rolling in from the New Mexico border on a curving orbit that spread desolation through Colorado and Kansas, converged with a dust storm that had swept over the Texas Panhandle.

The clouds cast a yellowish pall over most of the States. Near Phoenix the visibility was less than three miles. Further east, as the storm swept over Douglas, heavy clouds blotted out the sun.

NEW BONUS ACT IS COMPROMISE

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12—UP—

— Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, offered a currency expansion compromise bonus bill in the Senate late today in an effort to meet some of the President's strongest objections to this type of legislation.

The measure proposes to move up the date of maturity of the adjusted service certificate from 1945 to 1937 and calls for the issuance of more than two billion dollars interest bearing treasury notes to finance the payments.

Veterans cashing in their certificates on or after April 6, 1937, would be paid either in notes or 20-year government bonds. The treasury is authorized to cash certificates before the date of maturity but veterans doing so would face a lower interest penalty.

THIS will be a good growing season throughout the West, Dick according to Yosemite Indians. They point to the ice cones at the foot of 1300-foot Upper Yosemite Falls in California's Yosemite National Park, the largest in many years, as their guide in prediction. Charges are Moderate

It is well to remember that a beautiful mortuary does not mean high prices, as this firm proves. With all the refinements and comforts to be found here, charges are never higher than the smallest incomes can easily afford. By including everything in one plainly marked price, we have made it possible for every family to make an appropriate selection without financial hardship.

VISITING FIREMEN TO SEE POTTERY WORKS

The Fire Department announces that it will, as part of the entertainment for the Contra Costa Fire Association when it meets here the 23rd, take the delegates through the plant of the Technical Porcelain Company.

We are again in Chief. As like as not they'll be sending you a bill for cleaning their suits and shining their shoes if you take them through a pottery shop. We went through that shop one day and know whereto we speak. Why not show them the Chinese Chung-Mei home, or the dog track or the new furniture in Memorial hall, or the gal who was queen of the '19 show, and then show them the family album with pictures of the Technical plant in it. We believe in doing the honors for the visitors but badged if we would lay ourselves liable for the charges of the shoe shining parlors. Huh, Chief?

SMALL BOYS WILL

MOONEY FILES HIGH STUDENTS FREEDOM PLEA HAVE ANNUAL SENIOR DAY

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, April 12.—UP—White-baited Tom Mooney, convicted 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bomber, today filed a habeas corpus petition in San Rafael superior court asking immediate release from San Quentin prison.

The 115 page petition and 500 page document of exhibits alleges perjury by principal state witness and charges that Charles Flickert, then district attorney of San Francisco, knew the evidence was faked.

The plea was practically identical to that which was last year rejected by the district federal court and the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mooney appeared to be in good spirits and anxious to see the new action under way.

"I've waited most anxiously to see my case go to the State court," he said. "I am confident the facts of my conviction will be heard in full and that, once more, I will be freed."

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Spring is the Time That "Better Take a Tonic" Is An Often-Heard Phrase On All Sides

FOR some reason "better take a tonic" is a phrase heard most often in the spring. Doubtless the need for it arises from the lassitude and general feeling of depression. Of course, many of you remember how you used to take a course of some sort of bitters in the spring in order to "purify" the body. Those were the days when baths were weekly ceremonial.

Getting our clothes off at night or on again in the morning was a brisk affair and we covered up pretty good because only a few rooms of the house were heated. Whether we didn't give our skins much chance to breathe or whether we ate when cakes, keeping syrup all the way round, we seemed to think our blood stream had grown thick and sluggish over winter. Some sort of clarifying or rejuvenating process was called for to set us right again.

The natural and normal condition of the blood is one of alkalinity. It has an intimate relation with the way we digest our food. Its efficiency as general agent of nourishment of the body is determined largely by the chemical nature of the food we eat, or sometimes by the medicine we take.

Our systems require a certain amount of organic salts. We need to maintain the alkaline balance which is always being threatened by the acids acquired or produced by the body's intake. We make our bread and take light by the use of various leavening agents. It was the effort to away with that leaden feeling in the stomach that persuaded Grandmother to commence using saleratus or brewing hop tea to make a bubbly "sponge" which later was thickened and baked into "light" bread.

THE fact that our blood is too thick or too acid comes from the way we overheat our houses now or overfeed our bodies. All of us must go through stages of oxidation. It can be absorbed by the blood and carried to the tissues in the form of nourishment. What we usually call acidity is really a lowered form of alkalinity, since the acids remain acid until the alkaline base is sufficient to neutralize them or we get enough oxygen to destroy them.

The process of oxidation is a progressive one, each time from one stage of digestion along to another simpler one until the completed process releases the vital energy we must have to carry on. Lowering the degree of alkalinity means a lowered power of energy and naturally a lowered state of resistance.

Anything that interferes with our getting enough oxygen to keep up the process of oxidation and elimination will give the feeling of stiffness and lethargy. It is an excellent thing at this stage to clean out and tone up the system, but it needs to be more than a general dosing with cathartics or taking some nostrum that merely pep's us up for the time being.

ANSWER to Mrs. S. She wants a remedy for "gastric indigestion." This could be any of the stomach miseries of which so many complain. The gastric juice is secreted in the stomach and the stomach and intestines are expected to digest the proteins or nitrogenous foods like the white of egg, gluten of eran or casein of cheese. It must change these into peptone which is soluble and can then be carried to the different portions of the body. If this process is not worked out, then the fermenting juices of the stomach are not doing their work. Some form of remedy containing peptone or hydrochloric acid to stimulate the stomach secretions is indicated.

ANSWER to M. E. B. There are no particular foods which would cause albumen to show in the urine unless one were to eat excessive quantities of albuminous foods. When albumen is secreted by the kidneys, it usually means some disturbance in the blood which may be anaemia or high blood pressure or an inflammation. The diet would be governed by these conditions.

Guide to Charm

PROMPT ACTION IS BEST MEANS TO AVOID ACNE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

APRIL should be a month dedicated to youth—glowing, eager, exultant youth! You should be beautiful—with a body slender as a new moon, skin that is firm, smooth and clear, eyes that are bright and red, young lips that are full of confidence and quick to smile. If you are all of these things, then life, for you, is a gay adventure.

But often we see the same young lines and contours, the same soft, eager mouth, but the skin is splotched and rough and unlovely and the eyes are frightened and bitter. Gone is the bright confidence in life and the joy of spring with its promises.

Acne is a tragic thing that tears at the soul of many sensitive young persons—both boys and girls—and mothers should do everything in their power to stop its cruelty. And mothers can do so much if only they will get over the notion that everyone must go through a siege of acne and that it "will clear up by itself in time."

Something must be done the minute acne appears. It would be done before we were only wise, but few of us are! Cleanliness, deep, thorough and consistent, the use of antiseptic, sufficient rest and sleep and fresh air, a fully supervised diet and plenty of pure water, fresh fruit juice and milk to drink will often clear up a case of acne before it gets a real foothold.

A good pure soap, an antiseptic ointment, and a lotion that forms a protective film over the skin should be used in the local treatment. Wash the skin with soap and water twice a day, scrubbing sufficiently to arouse circulation without really irritating the already sensitive skin. Rinse with equal care, getting an antiseptic after the water.

Use a comedone extractor for removing blackheads that come out easily and open the pimples that "come to a head" with a sterilized needle and extract the contents. Take up the matter on piece of cotton, and touch each spot with alcohol. When the cleansing is finished apply an acne ointment if you expect to stay home for while. These special ointments have deep-penetrating properties.

After your morning cleansing, apply a calamine lotion or special acne lotion that is drying and slightly antiseptic. This helps to clear up the over-oily condition that is directly responsible for acne.

If after a month of careful corrective treatment, the acne still persists, or is marring the skin, it is wise to consult a physician or dermatologist. Your nearest large hospital can give you the name of a reputable person to see. Your skin may need ultra-violet treatments or you may need some medical treatment to clear up the underlying cause.

QUESTION: "I am nearly three pounds overweight, yet my thighs are so thin they look grotesque. I would like to lose weight, yet I hesitate to take exercises that might reduce my legs even more. Will cocoa butter applied to my thighs fatten them?" —Mrs. F."

YOUR problem is a rather unusual one and I think it would be wise to consult your doctor before attempting diet or exercise. Exercise should normalize your body, however, wearing away the unwanted fat and building up flabby, undeveloped tissues. Cocoa butter will not fatten your legs.

You and Your Child

LYING BY CHILD BROUGHT ABOUT BY HER MOTHER

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

The Problem of the Widow With a Son, Who Has the Chance to Marry Again

A MOTHER should consider deeply before giving her children a stepfather who might be unkind. Unless some provision can be made for the children, or one is assured that the family will live harmoniously, there is not much to be gained by a marriage with a man with whom one is not deeply in love.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: I have been a widow for three years and have one child—a boy now 12. I have a terrible struggle keeping our little home together, and am not very strong. Naturally, my boy is in school. Now, I have an opportunity to marry a man who could provide for us nicely. My boy flies in a rage every time I talk to him about marrying this man and is none too gracious to the man when he calls.

"Frankly, I am not at all sure that this man would be very generous or good to my son. He isn't very fond of children—and my child is no exception. I have tried to tell Sonny that this marriage would benefit him and to explain all the details to him, but he doesn't like the idea. Now, Mrs. Martin, what should I do? I cannot truthfully say that I love this man. He is just a good 'out for me' and I don't think we could be very contented, but for the boy. Should I sacrifice myself for my son—or marry the man and take a chance?"

"Frankly, I am not at all sure that this man would be very generous or good to my son. He isn't very fond of children—and my child is no exception. I have tried to tell Sonny that this marriage would benefit him and to explain all the details to him, but he doesn't like the idea. Now, Mrs. Martin, what should I do? I cannot truthfully say that I love this man. He is just a good 'out for me' and I don't think we could be very contented, but for the boy. Should I sacrifice myself for my son—or marry the man and take a chance?"

"Thirty-five."

NOW, I call yours a problem. I am sure you love your son and would do anything to make him happy. And I am sure you don't love this man, or would be greatly distressed at giving him up.

You must think of your boy as I see it. If you are convinced that this marriage would bring him advantages, and since it obviously would be better for you—marry. But take my advice and talk frankly with this man, getting him, if possible, to state his attitude and intentions for the boy. If he would consent to send him to good boys' school and to have him with you during his vacations, with perhaps a camp for part of the summer, I think it would be a very happy arrangement. If he refused to consider your son, don't marry him. How could you be happy under those circumstances?

Try to see this man's viewpoint, too. He may be jealous of another man's son. That's not natural, but he can very much for you. If he does not seem to like the boy, and you are all housed together, there's not much happiness ahead for any of you. You have to make sure that this condition will not arise.

When your son leaves school he can then choose with whom he will live, or where. He would be a selfish boy to consider only himself. At best you probably will not have him any more. He may leave your town in order to find employment. Then what?

It is much more important for you to be sure of the man's attitude toward your son, than your son's attitude toward him. If this man loves you he will in all probability be fair and just toward your son. But you must make sure.

DEAR MRS. MARTIN: I am to be married in June and want to have a church wedding. We live in a small town and my mother thinks it would be pretty to have the service on our lawn and hold the reception right there. I want a church wedding and would like a reception at the hotel, which is very nice and has all the affairs in our town. What do you think I should do? My fiance doesn't care, but my mother is set on my wedding being at home.

Why not gratify your mother's whim. Even if you have your way and are married in church, you could have the reception in your home. Perhaps that would satisfy your mother.

I should think you would much prefer having the reception in your home than in the hotel, no matter how nice it may be. You owe it to your mother to concede to her wishes about the reception, but since you are the bride, you certainly have the right to decide to be married in church, since you prefer it.

BALANCING OF BUDGET SEEN BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, April 12—UP—The social security bill, over which hot debate is raging in the House, ultimately will balance the budget, President Roosevelt said today.

The reasons he thinks so, as told at his press conference today, are that:

1.—Old age pensions in the social security bill will take off of relief virtually all needy persons past 65 years of age.

2.—Unemployment insurance will maintain purchasing power through future depressions.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement came while House Republican leaders were opening their attack on the social security bill.

They said it would impose an annual $2,700,000,000 tax on industry and threaten recovery.

Their chief spokesman was Representative Allen T. Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, which prepared the bill for House consideration. When the committee voted to report social security, all Democrats voted "aye" but the Republicans merely voted "present," seeking to avoid going on record for or against it. Today they had plenty of objections.

"This bill is hasty, ill-conceived, and probably unconstitutional," Treadway said. "A vote for the bill is a vote to prolong the depression indefinitely."

"It was drawn up by brain-trusters," added Representative Harold Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, "many of whom never earned an honest dollar."

To Citizens And Voters Of The City of Richmond

For the past twenty-eight years I have been a resident and taxpayer of the City of Richmond. When we made our home here we immediately realized that Richmond's future depended on the development of its waterfront industrial lands and consequent incoming of industrial plants.

Over a number of years much has been accomplished along these lines but for the past eight or ten years we have realized that Richmond, with all its natural advantages as an industrial center has not had the location of industrial plants to which she is naturally entitled.

Many large industries have located elsewhere because Richmond's industrial property is divided into lots and blocks owned by individuals which makes it difficult to obtain for factory sites without a great deal of expense and a great loss of time. The result of these unnecessary delays is that the industry is generally located elsewhere during this time and usually located in vicinities without the above handicaps.

Richmond's water-front property must be turned back to acreage land as distinguished from lots and block subdivisions. Legally this can be done. The city would then own the land and would be in a position to sell the property at reasonable terms to prospective industries when they desire to locate here, as many other cities in this State have done.

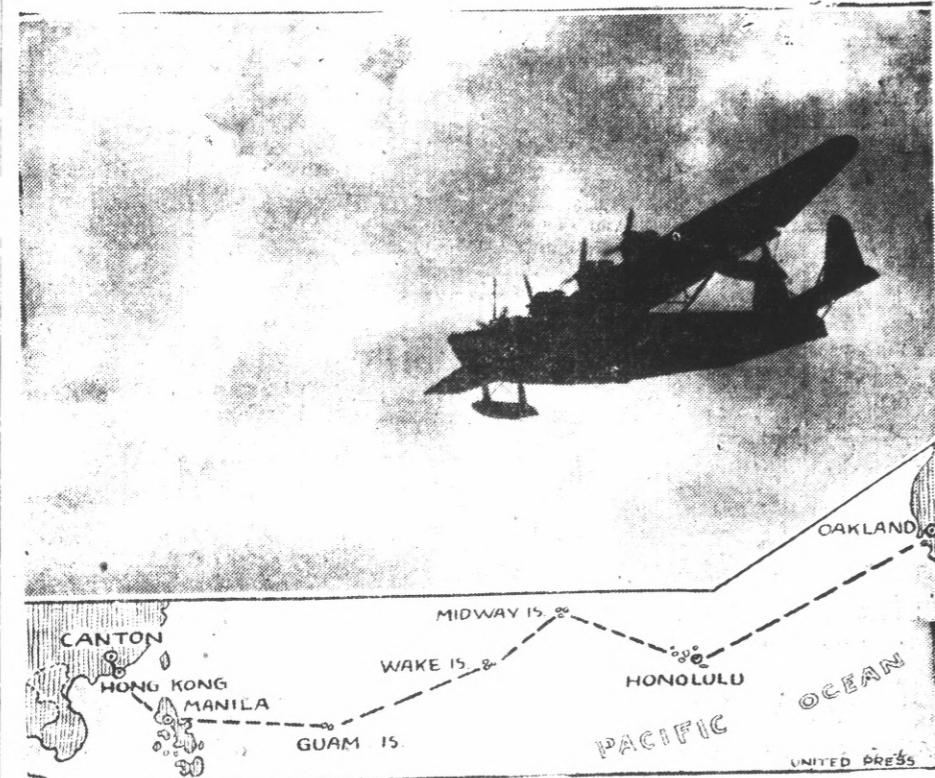

Suffice it to say that Richmond's future lies with industrial development. My campaign pledge, repeated, is unequivocally rezoning of Richmond so that we may have available industrial sites, which we can turn over immediately to industries that desire to locate and take advantage of our splendid water-front.

I am stating this campaign pledge as a definite pledge, together with my efforts to reduce the tax burden of the citizens of this community, because I WANT THE PEOPLE OF RICHMOND TO EXPRESS THEIR APPROVAL OR THEIR DISAPPROVAL OF IT BY THEIR VOTE ON THE COMING ELECTION.

If you, voters of Richmond, after due consideration, should elect me to the City Council, then I will know that you wish me to proceed and do my utmost to fulfill my pledges. I visualize in ten or fifteen years, Richmond will have reached its proper place among the industrial centers of this great State of California.

Yours for a prosperous future,
DAN NOZIGLIA,
Candidate for City Councilman.

FIRST TEST OF THEORY IS FAILURE

SAN JOSE, April 12.—Dr. E. C. Heinrich, noted entomologist, today staged in the Superior Court a bathtub fall experiment, that was a thin fall experiment, that was equally as successful as it was a failure.

The demonstration, through which David Lamson hopes he can prove to the jury that his wife fell to her death, was a complete failure at the first attempt but the second try proved to be a success.

Lamson studiously avoided watching the test, which was made by Dr. Heinrich and his comedy assistant, Mrs. Christine Phelps.

COURT HUSHED

The courtroom was completely hushed as the Lamson defense prepared to enact one of the most amazing and unusual demonstrations ever staged in a murder trial. It was the most dramatic moment of the second Lamson trial, which hitherto had been confined largely to medical and scientific testimony.

Only the jurors, who crowded closely around the four-foot walls of the model Lamson bathroom, and the attorneys and a few others could see the experiment, which was hidden from the spectators. Judge R. R. Syer stood on a chair to watch. Lamson's sisters, Dr. Margaret Lamson and Mrs. Willis Thoits, also watched their faces white and tense.

HIT HEAD ON BOWL

Dr. Heinrich prefaced his experiment with an explanation.

"I computed that Mrs. Lamson's was a freely falling body," he said, "so I could not simulate the fall exactly without exposing my assistant to serious injury or death."

Mrs. Phelps seated herself on the edge of the tub, although it was the defense contention Mrs. Lamson fell from a standing position. She allowed herself to fall backward with Dr. Heinrich's hand at the back of her head checking her fall.

Her head struck the edge of the wash bowl, cushioned by Dr. Heinrich's hand, but with an audible thump.

Then, instead of slipping back into the bathtub, her body spun and she fell face down on the door-cut of the tub.

REPEATS TEST

Mrs. Phelps' dress was disarranged. She scrambled to her feet hastily, red of face.

Prosecutors Allen P. Lindsay and Herbert Bridges argued broadly, but no other witnesses of the experiment displayed any emotion.

Chiselers To Be Banned By Sera Here will be automatically registered on the books of the National Employment Service.

The big group also revealed that under the provisions of the new program recently signed by President Roosevelt, relief workers on projects such as the SERA operates, will be required to work a greater number of hours than private employees working at the same occupation. Substitution of the "security wage" for the "minimum rate" now paid by SERA, will have the effect of increasing time for individuals on projects.

These moves will have the double effect of exiling from SERA rolls the "synthetic chiselers" who preferred the security of having his needs met by an SERA job and refused all other work for project work.
